

Tim O'Brien

"Floods of South Dakota"

Visit "Floods of South Dakota" on MotoLyrics.com

Someday, you'll build a cabin on a hillside Someday, you'll find the gold you're looking for Maybe someday, in the diamond mines of friendship
You'll find someone to share that winding road
For all time, you can count on me and all that's mine.

Sunsets, always make me homesick
Stirring up the wonder in me
It must be my place, for as long as I remember
I've been staring out on one-eighty-three
So be kind, I won't be here longer than the sunrise

SUNshine and the floods of Sounth Dakota come from the same sky
I don't really think there's much I can call mine
But someday's a thing I cannot own
And it's gonna tell you something
When you see that river roll up to your door

Sweet life, never looking back
I don't think I'll ever own that patch of ground
Lord from up high, you see all that railroad track
It's just a second passing by and then it's gone
For old times, I'm sending you this song to say that we're all fine.

Visit Tim O'Brien page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.