Tim O'Brien
''World Of Trouble''

World of Trouble

It's a world of Trouble, it's a world of pain well the clouds they see me comin and they know its time to rain, yeah they know its time to rain

So, many ways to worry, well what's a man to do GMS and the BSE and the Avian Bird Flu well I was thinkin' all about it, and how scary this world can be

I didn't see the Humvee comin' til it ran right over me, yeah it ran right over me.

Well I voted once for Nader, I voted once for Kerry too for conscious and for compromise but neither one came through yes Bush and then its Clinton and then you push repeat pass that bread and water Ma I think its time to eat Praise God its time to eat

It's a world of Trouble, it's a world of pain
well the clouds have seen me comin and they know its
time to rain, yeah they know its time to rain

Well the water keeps on risin', like it might never end if we can't beat this climate change let's make it our new friend

We'll plant orange groves in the Smokies Maybe its not to late, we'll scuba dive on Wall Street, belly flop from the Empire State, dive off that Empire State

Well I'm afraid of that gay marriage, and the border of Mexico, and what about Bin Laden, that's what I want to know.... where did he come from? where did he go, where did Bin Laden Go?

I got friends that left New Orleans, I got a nephew in Iraq.

and I shake my head and wonder if they'll ever make it back, boys, ever make it back

I laid my head on the railroad, to end it all that way but someone said that Amtrak train ain't comin' by today
I just don't have the power, I don't have the wit to keep my plans from endin' but in some big pile of dust, some big pile of [banjo riff]

It's a world of Trouble, it's a world of pain
well the clouds have seen me comin and they know its
time to rain, yeah they know its time to rain

Visit Tim O'Brien page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.