We fell asleep this morning
To sweet November skies
She wakes up without warning
The sun begins to rise
Her shadow high above me
I see her standing there
She's crazy not to love me
I'm crazy not to care

I fall apart
Another victim of the heart

Lately her mind's been wandering
Her train of thought derails
Sometimes it goes so hard and
This time she often fails
Won't take what's old and faded
And trade it for something new
She thinks that's overrated
I think she's overdue

She falls apart
Another victim of the heart
Another victim of the heart

They come and go
And souls, they tend to wonder
But I've learned when you grow
You always face the sun
Because we just want to fall in love

The moon, it draws it's current
Against the city lights
We walk the streets uncertain
In hopes to pass the time

We fall apart
Yeah, we're just victims of the heart
I fall apart
Oh, another victim of the heart
