

John McVey

"Song of the Night"

Visit "Song of the Night" on MotoLyrics.com

On the other side of day
O'way across the ocean
The moon has chased away the light

And the pull she feels is strong
In the universal motion
And her children sing the song of the night

When she comes, my shadows fade
To a silent lover's thunder
Then we watch the children's eyes ignite

Is it choices that we've made,
Or is it just a spell we're under?
Or is it just the song of the night?

Sing hey-ho, my children, sing
The choices don't mean anything
Sing hey-ho, if the feeling's right
Come on and join in the song of the night

On the other side of town
A wave upon the ocean
And a lover's eyes will catch the light

And the pull they'll feel is strong
In the universal motion
And their children sing the song of the night

Sing hey-ho, my children, sing
The choices don't mean anything
Sing hey-ho, if the feeling's right
Come on and join in the song of the night

Visit John McVey page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.