Here you lie before me emerald eyes so full of youth I fear a tear drop forming I can touch and still not have you

Here you lie before me
our bond is fragile yes it's true but in the light of morning there's none so beautiful as you

I look into your eyes
turn away to realize
there's none so beautiful as you

None so beautiful as you

And then you glide over me and you slide over me and you wake up every ounce of love and break like a tise over me

Then you kneel over me and you cry over me tears fall like the blood of some sacrificial lamb as your lying to me lying to me...

Here you lie before me
what comes next is up to you just no moe tears this morning let the truth do what it can do

none so beautiful as you
