What is this, you claim to profess some kind of rare deed done on time what mountain crossing have I missed what sort of barb's attached to your line

Be careful of what you're promising don't dare look at me with those eyes

Because you're way out of your league boy you're way out of your mind you can't be serious yet you can't be denied

I've watched the sun rise and set on your deepest regrets yet you're still off chasing some star you leave me behind with your heart in my chest then come home bearing your latest scar

When will you find what you're looking for don't you know it was here all the time
