I've grown tired
I've grown cold nothing causes any harm to me hated things I hold

I can't feel what you give to me see the skin's burned from my hands I remember what you promised me

Like some Desperation Angel
I come running back to you, running back to you
running back...
And in desperation, Angel
I come running home to you running home to you I'll come running home...

My eye have numbed
my words have died can't witness what I've become God could burn my eyes I can't bear you to look at me is there nowhere I can hide I hold on to what you promised me

Like some Desperation Angel
I come running back to you
and in desperation, Angel
I've come running home to you trust in me my angel you'll never know what I've been through never know what I've been through no no, never know what I've been through

I'm your Desperation Angel
I've come running home to you
and in desperation, Angel
I've come running back to you
running back to you

running back to you
running back to you
running back to you
