

Timi Yuro

"The Right Thing"

Visit "The Right Thing" on MotoLyrics.com

I know myself this have gone too far I wish I would but I waste my time wondering how I can make things right I keep on looking away I can't bare to face this This humanity game we both play to fall down I'm not somebody's fool. this silence has gone too far for me. right about now by the way things sound I've stopped myself but there's no one left to find out. I guess I know now that I'm not supposed to care let the weight of your world be on somebody else I guess I know now that I'm not supposed to care let the weight of your world be on something I keep on falling apart, I won't stop to fix it This humanity game I have played has worked out. I'm not somebody's fool. this silence has gone too far for me. right about now by the way things sound I've stopped myself but there's no one left to find out. I guess I know now that I'm not supposed to care let the weight of your world be on somebody else I guess I know now that I'm not supposed to care let the weight of your world be on somebody else by chance, we crossed paths in change of heart I know myself things have gone too far I wish I would but I waste my time wondering how I can make but you give and I take things will still be the same but you give and I take, I know I should try to change. and I tried to do the right thing because it made sense at the time and I could'nt do that to anyone else I wish someone had changed my mind.

Visit Timi Yuro page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.