Where there is grief, there will be hope

And if ever a hand is in need, know that I'll be holdin' on

Know that the peace that comes from above

is the same everlasting love

Remember me whenever you're all alone

And if it helps you to sleep know that I'll be looking on

Know that the peace that you dream of

is the same everlasting love

You know I've watched you carry all this weight upon your shoulders

As if no one understands what you go through

But with all the might in you believe what I say is true

When I say that I will never ever leave you... or forsake you

So you just reach out as far as you can

Should the whole world just stare in disbelief know that I'll take hold of your hand

What your heart feels, is what you sing of

Is the same everlasting love

Everlasting love, Everlasting love

When the darkness filled the urgent sky and the tears welled up in the corners of my eye and the sun wouldn't shine for the pourin' rain

Wondered if I'd ever see daylight again

When the stars protest at the moon's refrain and I told myself I'd surely go insane and the earth kept turnin' at an alarmin' pace and I couldn't talk my heart out of joinin' the race

I remember a time I couldn't close my eyes

I would lie awake dispairin', don't know how many nights

Afraid to death that my chest would give way to the fear

Pulled the covers to my head and I cupped my ears

In attempt to escape the deafening sounds of silence

In attempt to escape these constant visions of violence

And with death as close as it could possibly get heard a voice in the distance sayin' CeCe not yet

Then suddenly the darkness gave away to the light and I threw off the covers as I closed my eyes just in time to feel your spirit grip my body like a glove and I knew in that moment that it was your...

that it was your everlasting, lasting love

I said it was your everlasting love

Yesterday and today, forever more it will remain

Even now it's still the same, cause my love will never change

Know that the peace that comes from above
