The light blazes in darkness,
Salvation for us
As the lighthouse among the rocks,
I searched for it all my life

There was a path I walked
Searching the road to darkness
Among the sea I saw an abyss
And among ruined rocks
Making the way on waves in darkness
On drakkares of the fate
We have seen the light
That called us on the coast of life

Calls, on the coast, under the firmament
On the coast of life, where there is no darkness
Making my way among the rocks
To the light of the lighthouse,
the way to heaven amongst all the evil

The wave has covered me again,
And in my mouth remained the taste of sin
But the boat is damaged away from the land and the coast
I row with all my strength
Waves are breaking in on board,
And wind renders the sail almost useless
And I sail towards the light of the lighthouse
Through the storm of adversities
Stars hid in darkness,
And the moon has tried to shine
But light, beckoning me,
Does not allow me to get lost among the darkness

Light, beckoning me, light that calls me
Light, beckoning me, light of the Lord

The path for the ones, who once searched for
The road away from darkness
Among the abyss of sea
And among ruined rocks

Making the way on waves in darkness
On drakkars of fate
We have seen the light
That called us to the coast of life
Where there is no darkness,
Making my way among rocks
to the light of the lighthouse
My way through evil, towards heaven
To heaven
