Hey, hey, disbeliever
You're bleeding me dry
Come on now, listen to reason
And everything will be fine
I can't understand why you're so underhanded
You're just not yourself
Pretending to be something you don't believe in
Is bad for your health
I don't know why you're trying to hide
Now don't be so afraid
Always regretting and never forgetting
The mistakes that you've made
Hey, hey, disbeliever
You're bleeding me dry
Come on now, listen to reason
Everything will be fine
If craving attention and needing redemption
Is all part of the game
Nothing will ever be different
And we will all be insane
To hell with your habit

I'm not gonna have it
I'm tossing away my concern
Always a liar, playing with fire
And you will get burned
I wish it didn't have to be like this
Love doesn't lie, I'll testify
And that is the truth
And I dare you to defy
And to show me the proof
Hey, hey, disbeliever
You're bleeding me dry
Come on now, listen to reason
Everything will be fine
Hey, hey, disbeliever
We want to see ya
Try not to panic
You're such a long way from home
You're such a long way from home
You're such a long way from home
You're such a long way from home
Revenge can be sweet
And romance can be sour
We haven't much time
To dissect or devour
Love doesn't lie down

That's just the truth
I dare you to defy
I wish it didn't have to end like this
There are answers
No second chances
Given beyond the grave
So here's to the fucked up
Decisions we've made
Come on now, listen to reason
Everything will be fine
Hey, hey
To reason
We want to see ya
Don't panic
