

Lizzy Thin

"Thunder And Lightning Downey Lynott"

Visit "Thunder And Lightning Downey Lynott" on MotoLyrics.com

-----

Locked up in the classroom waiting for a break

Down to the studio knocking the date

Into the alley meet up with the boys

Waiting for the weekend to make a little noise

Thunder is strong, lightning is death

Kicking the girls and it's starting to blast

Sweeter than the heavens and the fate means stumble

But it's Saturday night and every night is small

Like thunder and lightning

god damn, it's so exciting

It hits you like a hammer

god damn

It was Saturday night I was ready for the dance

My girl walked in the door holding another guys hand

He look six foot six you know to my mind

I was taking baby little sugar and took her outside

I was madder than hell and fit to burn

This guy would break a leg before but now he's got to run

Standing in the corner giving him a bruise

You can keep your lover, hold her and love her like a girl

When I crazy started walking it was Saturday night

I was dressed to kill I was doing alright

Alright in the middle of the night

I wasn't ready for a rumble but the mood was right

You've got to believe absolutely this way

I said love that's the price you have to pay

Then the going gets tough up against the wall

When you bring your heavy racket then I'd rather have a ball

We started to rumble and stumble

It is we were rocking and rolling and rolling

I fumbled and started to win

When the greater than wicked then I hit him again

I hit him again and I couldn't hit him anymore

My head was all black and blue and my jaw was sore

Sweeter than the heavens and like a frightening stumble

It was Saturday night when every rock was stormed

Visit Lizzy Thin page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.