When my letter reaches you
Please don't break the seal
Just wait a little while
Give it time to heal

And I believe you'll understand
Just exactly how I feel
This is my last and my most loving request

With a restless innocence
Our hearts began to race
With one thing on our minds
We foolishly embraced

And now as twilight closes in
I see you from a distant place
And I wish for you all the courage that you'll ever need
To be your best

And although it storms and it's raining outside
All the people of the city still believe in the existence of the sun
And a forgotten melody
And the birds in our hands
A life without pain
Is a life without joy, without fun!
