"Vladimir"

He said that he'd never fight to the death but he'd fight for his own dream
He said he knew he was right, he was right to be revolutionary
His name was Vladimir the warrior
His weapons were within the law
His name was Vladimir though this sounds tame
I don't think I will ever be the same.

He grew so tall and so strong and the words that he spoke they were so pretty (Oh Vladimir!)
And I believed every word, I believed that despite all this he loved me
And I believed in every speech he thought of me
His name was Vladimir and he had sworn to set us free.

He said if they didn't agree he said he would find a way to make them
And I guarantee that I didn't agree 'til the day we marched on London
And when I saw his eyes were twinkling
And we strode forwards singing
His name was Vladimir and he would be In love with everyone, with everyone,
In love with everyone but me.

BANG.

They shot him in the heart, beyond the London strand
The last words that he said: "You're only going to kill a man"
So we stood in the sun to see
And there we sang in his memory:

"All Hail all hail Vladimir"
'Cause I loved him dearly, even though Even though...
Well, you know
"All Hail all hail Vladimir!"

And I can't decide
We can't decide

d drink to eachother forever...!
