6am, still awake
Someone take the fear away
Hold me close and give me strength
Take me back to yesterday
When I was safe, I was sound
There was nothing to worry about
Now I'm losing all control
Don't want to face this on my own

I need another soul, another soul
To help me to survive
Take this heart, bring it back to life
I need another soul, another soul
To help me to revive
Take this heart and bring me back to life

Laying here all alone
Wishing someone else was home
To give me a sense of security
No more footsteps on the floor
No one knocking on the door
I'm invisible, people they just leave
I'm getting sick and tired of staring at the walls
And knowing there's no one around to catch me when I fall

I need another soul, another soul
To help me to survive
Take this heart, bring it back to life
I need another soul, another soul
To help me to revive
Take this heart and bring me back to life

Can't take this emptiness any longer
I need somebody else to make me stronger
Someone who won't just come and go
Cause I don't wanna be alone

I need another soul, another soul
To help me to survive
Take this heart, bring it back to life

I need another soul, another soul
To help me to revive
Take this heart and bring me back
Take this heart and bring me back
Take this heart, bring me back to life
