I'm a cheater
I'm a loser
I feel like a fucking user
In a world so full of pain
I can sink myself into
I'm ashamed to hear my name next to yours
I'm ashamed to hear my name

You've got the big house
Driving your fancy car
Living on a quiet street
Who do you think you are
Remove yourself from social disease
Way out in the suburbs, suburbs

Did you trade in that smile
With a heart that hasn't been around here in awhile
It got lost way out in the crowd
Yeah, it takes a little time to try to figure it out
I'm ashamed to hear my name next to yours
I'm ashamed to hear my name

You've got the big house
Driving your fancy car
Living on a quiet street
Who do you think you are
Remove yourself from social disease
Way out in the suburbs, suburbs

You've got to find out where you've been
Are you happy in the place that you're living in?
Or did you move away to lose all your friends?
Way out in the suburbs, suburbs

On this empty street, there's a broken part of me
Just a car ride down from those dirty bars & shopping malls
Yet somehow in the end we're all back where we began
So practice for the moment when the nervous city curtain calls

You've got to find out where you've been
Are you happy in the place that you're living in?
Or did you move away to lose all your friends?
Way out in the suburbs, suburbs

You've got the big house
Driving your fancy car
Living on a quiet street
Who do you think you are
Remove yourself from social disease
Way out in the suburbs, suburbs

I'm a cheater
I'm a loser
I feel like a fucking user
In a world so full of pain
