Been thinking a lot about the good times
And how the bad times never come
I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart
For all the little things you done

I've had a lot of good things happen
My family and my closest friends
From the start it was a big mistake
Decisions never in my hands

And it's always been the same
It's you who takes the blame
Because my heart is cold

So many things I take for granted
My life has been one fine turn of events
So I wrote this song to say a little thank you
For a life that never has made any sense

And it's always been the same
It's you who takes the blame
Because my heart is cold
Yeah!

Whoa whoa
