More than a routine, evening ritual
She raises the glass to her lips
Comfort comes easiest through chemicals that might help her forget

Friday night will be tomorrow
Tomorrow might as well be tonight
They may not seem like much of an answer
But it feels right

We've all felt broken (broken)
Felt lost (felt lost)
Question for your broken heart
Is how will we move on?
How will we?
How will we move on?

Move on

More than a pressed drive, daily medication
He closes his eyes to the past
Nothing can keep him down if he can just ignore
What he can't blame on someone else

Yeah, he's an old man sitting in a soap box racer
With both hands over his eyes
He won't admit his innocence
Is something he left behind

We've all felt broken
Felt lost (felt lost)
Question for your broken heart
Is how will we move on?

I won't say another -----
Cause I don't want don't want

We've all felt broken
Felt lost
How will we move on?
How will we?

How will we move on?

How will we move on?

How will we move on?

How will we move on?

How will we move on?

How will we move on?

How will we move on?

How will we move on?
