Sometimes
I think about hearts of angels
Perfect light
To guide their flight away from danger
With their halos of gold
Their wisdom of old
And feathered wings that unfold

[Chorus]
It must have been angels that carried me
When I was too weak to lift my feet
When I was too blind to clearly see

Time is cruel
To youth and grace and flawless beauty
Life is hard
Do unto others - that's our duty
When my soul was in pain
With more loss than gain
I heard an angel speak my name

[Chorus]
It must have been angels that carried me
When I was too weak to lift my feet
When I was too blind to clearly see

[Chorus]

Every day I feel the touch of an angel
With the wind and the rain in my hair
The warmth of the sun will soon appear

It must have been angels that carried me
When I was too weak to lift my feet
When I was too blind to clearly see
Heavenly light shined down on me
Love came down and set me free
It must have been angels
He must have sent angels
To watch over me
