Missing connections
No doctor for this patience
Kin never seems to care much
We move around so often

You say, "Hold on to you belong to, so they belong to you to."

I have been dying to tell you
Just what I've been thinking
I have been trying to tell you
What's on this mind

Second looks are never fair
We glaze it over with easy air
It was never always good
No matter what neighborhood we stood in

You say, "Hold on to you belong to, so they belong to you to."

I have been dying to tell you
Just what I've been thinking
I have been trying to tell you
What's on this mind

Careful what you say careful how you say it
Careful what you say
careful how you play it

I have been dying to tell you
Just what I've been thinking
I have been trying to tell you
You're on this mind
