Wonder what hold things together

Is it political positions or maybe superstitions

The list goes on forever

It seems to go on forever

Are old rituals necessary to stand by

How many things just to get us through the night

And can we say their wrong altogether

The world keeps going on forever

It still looks big

Can everything in some way help us understand

From mathematical problems to rubber bands

And can we say it's wrong altogether

The world goes on forever

It still looks big
