So you think of what it could've been when "time is all you've lost" keeps burning through your head now you fall asleep standing but lie awake in bed watch the clock drag on and think about what you should've said
It's for the better your better half is gone its O.K. you didn't need her anyway and I don't want to hear you say nobody can take her place and what more can I say you didn't need her anyways So you think of how it should've been and "it's just over" keeps going through your head you're hearing all those words time and time again watch the phone all night and think about what you should've said.
