"The Promise In Compromise"

We only get such a little time, so every minute counts for like seasons

Changing, while hearts keep aching for warmth. I just can't help but feel like it's a crime

To wanna keep a tight grip on what we're sharing because I know its tearing, you are bored.

Forgive me, if I'm wrong but I never said I wouldn't make you cry

Now I'm begging for another try to keep the promise
in a compromise.

The simple things never come easy, we'll work it out somehow cause it's not worth

Faking a love that's not worth making, this time, it ain't a question of if this is right,

But if its right for now, with all I'm taking not sure I'm really giving you enough.

Forgive me, if I'm wrong but I never said I wouldn't
make you cry

Now I'm begging for another try to keep the promise
in a compromise.

I know its hard on you, its true. (I know its hard on you its true)

I'll give it all for you, if you just ask me too.

Forgive me, if I'm wrong but I never said I wouldn't
make you cry

make you cry

Now I'm begging for another try to keep the promise
in a compromise.
