Cry for the children who die
For the ones who hang below the bridge are punished for their crimes
Hate, and dont you hesitate For they take the world by storm in bombing runs and kill for their mandate

We are the ones who watch, we write in every law
We bring the hammer down and crush you big or small

Bow, for the end is now
For your eyes have swollen shut, and killed your life so long you live in doubt Crawl to the terrible fall
When your reasons give away to torture you, theres nothing left at all

We are the final wall; we pinpoint all your flaws
We break the hourglass and cut you with the shards

Some people say the end of time
Others have seen and just deny

Cry for the children who die
For their sacrifice, in this earthly vice Red for the blood they shed
For their holy beds, cause their living dead cause their living dead

We are the ones who watch, we write in every law
We are the final wall, we pin point all your flaws
We break the hourglass and cut you with the shards
