(Tom T. Hall)

There is a force that moves our lives from place to place

There is a force exchanging smiles from face to face
If we must go and we must go then we will be apart
May the force be with you always sweetheart.

There is a force that moves the wind and changes tides
Not that we would but if we should we couldn't hide
The force is all and we as one are but a tiny part
May the force be with you always sweetheart.

The force is bigger than the little plans we made
The force fix winners in the little games we played
If we are part of something bigger we can face the dark
May the force be with you always sweetheart...
