Somewhere there's a little boy growing up on his own
When he wants to feel the arms of love and a hope he's never known

Across town there's a woman who's looking at a photograph

She longs to give her heart away to a child she couldn't have

Tonight he needs the strength to just hold on
And she believes deep in her heart that day is gonna come

You just may be
The answer to a prayer
The one to meet a need
And you just may be
The only heaven some will ever see
You just may be

A baby girl is going to face the world alone
While a mom and dad are on their knees praying for a little one
Half a world away three brothers in a foster home
Are dreaming of a family they can call their own Well that family leaves tomorrow for the Philippines
And that mom and dad got the call they waited years to receive

You just may be
The answer to a prayer
The one to meet a need
And you just may be
The only heaven some will ever see

You just may be the hope to hold on to Be the hand that pulls them through
A single ray of loves that shines so true

You just may be
The answer to a prayer
The one to meet a need
And you just may be

The only heaven some will ever see
Oh, the one who leads them to believe
The only heaven some will ever see
You just may be
