

Karkadens, The "March Against Time"

Woken to sound of a one-track world
Same clash every morning, nothing else to do March around like zombies cause we're told that that's the right way
Rules set down by time
So throw away your clocks and join us on a march
To break through the bars that jailed us for so long
The futile resistance that rules our existence Crumbles like the Berlin wall

In a march against a routine world You get silenced once. So what? There's always tomorrow
So what if I don't want to follow bells on their march to a grave
Wake up 5:00 every morning, ever day
Eat, drive, go to school, slowly waste away Too many people afraid of change, afraid of the unknown

Guidelines written down by the same guy who Took away our lives with our mutual support An alliance of fools hanging on thin strings dancing to commands
Dance now
