(Erik Hillestad/Anita Skorgan) adaptation anglaise
Richard James Burgess

Who she is - no one knows, no one dares to come too close
As she stands and cries out loud
Staring wide-eyed, as if she sees right through you She sees a world that lies behind, they say she's out of her mind

She's a child of the flame and the fountain (Child of earth) She's the keeper of the keys to the mountain (Child of
earth)
She sees the world for all its worth, take care of Mother
Earth

We all turn and look away
We talk in whispers, exchange embarrassed glances She's defenceless as a child, a messenger from the wild

She's a child of the flame and the fountain (Child of
earth) She's the keeper of the keys to the mountain (Child of
earth)

She's a child of the flame and the fountain (Child of
earth) She's the keeper of the keys to the mountain (Child of
earth)
She sees the world for all its worth (Take care) and let the fire keep burnin'
(Take care) Let the wheel keep on turnin' (Take care) Take care of Mother Earth
