You and I were finished

I was through with you

Splitting up forever

Seemed the thing to do

I said I can't stand you

With your honey touch

This time you were cheating me

One time too much

Just then I remembered

That a friend I knew

Told me one thing

I should never do

Never never change your lovers in the middle of the night

Everything may look so different in the early morning

Never never be too hasty when you're grooping in the

What you're getting into may be just a lark

Keep your cool and don't change lovers when you're feeling sorta high

Sorta big and high and mighty without really knowing why

Let your heat wear off a little, give your man another

And don't fall for someone else's song and dance

Sure there was this guy

Right next to me

Mine just for the asking

He said he would be

But to leave my man

Seemed to me all too strange

And I'd say that I'm glad

I didn't make the change

Now our life is almost

Like a Paradise

Let me pass on to you

This advice

Keep your cool and don't change lovers in the middle of the night

You may feel a strong temptation, the vibrations may be right

But who knows what's gonna happen, you may simply lose your cool

When you find it, you'll find out you were a fool

Never never change your lovers under any midnight spell

Take it easy, slow and easy, everything will turn out well

Let the sunshine of a new day, and don't move while you're uptight

Changing lovers in the middle of the night

Never never change your lovers in the middle of the
