Nobody told me that tonight would be the night that I was due a little surprise
See I thought she was my friend but now I love her
But friends in love don't go together
From the start, as she gets in to the car she lets in enough air to startle
See I thought she was my friend but now I love her
Yeah I thought she was my friend but now I love her
I think I love her

And I've since blurred my thoughts
I think tonight this could be nice
And I'm falling down on this judgement
Even though it isn't right
And I've since blurred my thoughts out
I think we should be moving on
And I'm falling down on this judgement
Even though it's wrong

Another drizzle keeps us together, if I was to say something
With all this weather my jacket wont stop her shivering but I'll give it anyway
And I thought it was a vague line between like and love
But tonight it's very clear to us
My jacket wont stop her shivering but I'll give it anyway
I'll give it anyway

And I've since blurred my thoughts
I think tonight this could be nice
And I'm falling down on this judgement
Even though it isn't right
And I've since blurred my thoughts out
I think we should be moving on
And I'm falling down on this judgement
Even though it's wrong
Even though it's wrong

And I've since blurred my thoughts
I think tonight this could be nice
And I'm falling down on this judgement

Even though it isn't right
And I've since blurred my thoughts out
I think we should be moving on
But I'm falling down on this judgement
Even though it's wrong
