I've got a bug in my head
And a jumping heart, no time to spare
Turn left, turn right, step on it
Stopped by the traffic lights

And all that honking screaming
The cab driver is dreaming of the beach and babes
Leaning back easy as the sun goes down
I'm already late

No time to spare, couldn't care less about it
If the sky was falling down
No, I don't care, you can stare
While the whole world is crumbling around me

Urban solitude, breaking me down
Keeps me dreaming
Urban solitude, shaking me down
Keeps me dreaming

Come on

So you've got a lot of stuff on your mind
Or a bleeding heart when nobody cares
Step in, step out of the rain Head for the flickering lights, just head for the flickering lights

There's always somebody dancing, baby, taking a chance
You can find a little romance, someone will give you love
Although it's just enough to get you through the night
Well, alright now

No, I don't care, you can stare
I don't care about it
No, I don't care, you can stare
I don't care about it

No, I don't care, you can stare
While the whole world is crumbling around me

Urban solitude, breaking me down
Keeps me dreaming
Urban solitude, shaking us down
Keeps me dreaming

Urban solitude, breaking me down
Keeps me dreaming, dreaming, dreaming
Urban solitude, shaking me down
Down, down, down, down, down, down, down, down

Urban solitude, breaking me down
Keeps me dreaming
Urban solitude, shaking me down
Down, down, down, down, down, down, down, down

Urban solitude
