"all that I've got" by Wendy MaHarry i woke up early just to see your face a man like you brightens up the place outside the window the sky is gray one look at you and those clouds roll away now everything will be alright got you here by my side what more could i want look at all that i've got.

i watch the men that drive those fancy cars they grip the wheel so tight lose a grip on who they are how many times i've gotten lost that way how many times i've driven true love away how many times has love passed you by
