[Cunningham] I did you wrong Misrepresented was being selfish Scarred by all the beautiful people I affected I strengthened wrong opinions of our identify And I got my enemy to say see, see, see I forgot where I came from I forgot where I've been I forgot everything that made me a strong Black King My pain came first Because I was overwhelmed and torn Too many times ignored Too many times scorned Yes, I'm an individual that made his own choices But I gave you another burden Diminished one of our voices This dark skin is a blessing It was my personal obligation To be upright in the struggle Not negate our situation Please be patient I'm a try to make it up to you I'm a try to make it up to me Too try to make my purpose true To all my black people I sincerely apologies I praise God always And Remember King Selassie I
