The key is in the front door the clock is on the wall
The coals are in the fireplace nothing has moved at all But as you look around you still nothings quite the same

The windows are cracked the curtains are torn
Your life disappoints if you want to be free
Hold me never let me know

Do you stand upon the station or are you on the train?
Do you want to vanish or could we begin again?
Do I just imagine or is it really true?

You want to be free to be on your own
To start a new life you want to leave me
Hold me never let me know

Never let me know
Never let the world we share together
Tumble, be destroyed

Never let me know
Always keep our dreams and memories
Cherished in your heart

On the road we travel sometimes I feel I know
You'd rather walk without me please say it isn't so
Just put your arms around me and never let me go

Without you the world would be cruel and cold
It cannot be true that you want to be free Hold me never let me go put your arms around me never let me go
