You made people, cry
About the tragedy
It's hard to think
How bad it could be

It's not in sympathy
That we care about things like this
And it still lingers
Inside my head

Think of her
Explain the reason why
It sounds easier
Than reality that stands by itself

Mark my words
A kiss is the only way back
(It's the living truth that dies)

It's supposed to be a shiny day like this
You buried yourself too fast
And all the happy things in life will be erased
We remember small things you have done
That were not obvious, not important to me
We didn't see what was going on

Did you think of, them
When deciding what to do with yourself
How could you say goodnight

Thousands will react
Was that the point, the goal that you wanted to reach?

You
Gone forever
Live
In memories

We're off for today
We're gone forever

It was not right (it's the living truth that dies)
You made her cry (it's the living truth that dies)
