

Kid Down

"Reality Through A Telescope"

Visit "Reality Through A Telescope" on MotoLyrics.com

You swine, you were supposed to look after her
She needs you more than ever
You took the easy way out, even though it was hard for you
I'm blaming you if it happens to her too
I've heard that you were inside of all this pain
You passed it over to someone, so it can kill again

But I'm sure you had a damn good reason
You should have at least filled in the blanks
Watching the night sky, now she's all alone
Looking for the star that is your new home

No way out of the inside,
You trapped her there
Never to be the same again
She just inherited your pain

I have faith, that she won't blame herself
I guess you loved her, I know that she loved you
Do you think she'll ever find someone new?

But I'm sure you had a damn good reason
You should have at least filled in the blanks
Watching the night sky, now she's all alone
Looking for the star that is your new home

I never knew you, I'm not sure I wanted to
I never knew you, I'm not sure I wanted to

And I hope that you had a damn good reason
You should have at least filled in the blanks
You left her here that night, she's on her own
Trying to console her, but she feels alone

But I'm sure you had a damn good reason
You should have at least filled in the blanks
Watching the night sky, now she's all alone
Looking for the star that is your new home

