It's taken your will and deep is the knife
The blood it will spill, the rest of your life
It's more than a glance, it's cold down below
You've taken the chance, where you shouldn't go

The wheel of life is turnin'
You never should have crossed the track
Your karma is burnin'
You know you never can go back

Why did you forsake, you had to take
And now you're living in your hell
The vow you break, you try to shake
But it's so hard to break the spell

It's so hard to break the spell

Now say what you must, and kill your design
To ashes and dust, it chills to the spine
I don't understand, thought I knew you well
It's so outta hand, you can't break the spell

The wheel of life is turnin'
You never should have crossed the track
Your karma is burnin'
You know you never can go back

Why did you forsake, you had to take
And now you're living in your hell
The vow you break, you try to shake
But it's so hard to break the spell

Why did you forsake, you had to take
And now you're living in your hell
The vow you break, you try to shake
But it's so hard to break the spell

And now you're all alone
You've taken my advice
And you have never known
I should have told you twice

And you will hear the call
And now you start to fall
I see you lose your grip
And now you start to fall

The wheel of life is turnin?
You never should have crossed the track
Your karma is burnin?
You know you never can go back

Why did you forsake, you had to take
And now you're living in your hell
The vow you break, you try to shake
But it's so hard to break the spell

It's so hard to break the spell
