She was my lover
She was working undercover
Oh the woman knew all of the moves
She really had me romping
We were barefoot stomping
She just kept igniting my fuse

I was blinded by the blackness of her long silk stockings
She was rocking with an optical illusion
This ain't how I thought it'd be
She just kept on keeping me in a state of total confusion

She took me for a ride
Rattled me
I found out
She was an undercover agent for the blues

She never really needed love
Omnidirectional
I was just an innocent bystander
She kept on getting kinkier

I say hook, line, and sinker, she was
Just, just too hot to handle

She took me by storm
It must have been a season for the fools
She was so bad
An undercover agent for the blues

I was blinded by the blackness of her long silk stockings
She was rocking with an optical illusion
This ain't how I thought it'd be
She just kept on keeping me in a state of total confusion

She took me for a ride
Rattled me down to my shoes
And I found out

She was an undercover agent for the blues

She was so bad

An undercover agent for the blues
