

Kingston Trio, The

"Senora"

Visit "Senora" on MotoLyrics.com

Don't you remember, Senora, when you had a love of your own?

You had a duenna, Senora, you had a kind chaperon Didn't she sometimes, Senora, grant you a moment alone?

Once in a garden, Senora, didn't your love steal a kiss?
Surely a moment remembered, stirs in a settin' like this Surely, within such a garden, wisdom can smile upon bliss

Cruel is the curfew, Senora, cruelly and strictly imposed Soon Don Hernando will signal, biddin' the gate to be closed
Who'd be the wiser, Senora, if for a moment you dozed?

Don't you remember, Senora, you had a love of your own?
You had a duenna, Senora, you had a kind chaperon
I love her dearly, Senora, grant us a moment alone
I love her dearly, Senora, grant us a moment alone

Visit Kingston Trio, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.