This song always wanted to be longer than one verse

Breathe and the rest shall fall in place
Know that this moment too shall pass
Feel that your heart's so wide, you fall right in
You have found your home at last

Speak when the words are hard to find
Love like an ocean deep and vast
Trust is the tide that pulls you back again
You have found your home at last

Don't be surprised
When you find there are no walls
You've always known
That here you see it all
Don't be surprised
When you find there are no walls
Open your eyes
So you can see it all

Give when you want to hold on tight
Watch for the pride that comes too fast
Now is the only time you've ever had
You have found your home
You are not alone
You have found your home at last
