The present slips away
And darkness draws around me
But my weightless sense of being
Seems to float up from the shadows
That body there below me
I don't understand, can that be me?

A light so bright, the scents so strong
A thousand voices whisper
I clearly hear their soothing words
A million miles above me
They've come to take the dark side of my soul
All I know, all I fear
Nobody knows my name
For nobody would understand
That you kill what you fear
What you fear

I ride the rays of light
In blinding shades and colours
They reach up to the sky
Climbing faster ever faster
A spirit of the twilight
Is free at last, can you see me?

A light so bright, the scents so strong
A thousand voices whisper
I clearly hear their soothing words
A million miles above me
They've come to take the dark side of my soul
All I know, all I fear
Nobody knows my name
For nobody would understand
That you kill what you fear
What you fear

I ride the rays of light
In blinding shades and colours
They reach up to the sky
Climbing faster ever faster
Faster...
