Ant: Well, mate. Well, that's, that's our first album...

Dec: That seems to be it, man.

Ant: That's - what do they call it - a wrap, mate.

Dec: That's a wrap.

Ant: Literally!

Dec: Literally?

Ant: Yes, well that's our first album done, mate!

Dec: Right, yeah.

Ant: Well done!

Dec: I, I, I, I can't, I can't believe...

Ant: I can't believe you're stuttering like that...

Dec: I can't believe we've broke The Beatles' record, mate.

Ant: What? What's that?

Dec: Well, they did their first album in 14 hours, do you know that?

Ant: Yeah.

Dec: I didn't believe it was possible to do an album in 37 and a half minutes!

Ant: Actually, it is, mate.

Dec: I, I, I'm just amazed...

Ant: No, no, I think, I think Peter Gabriel done his in 32.

Dec: Awww...

Ant: So we haven't even broke the record, at all have we?

Dec: He's just beaten us then.

Ant: Eh? Eh?

Dec: Hey, but I think we've done well though!

Ant: Yeah it's, it's, you know, you know I'm pleased...so what you gonna do now then?

Dec: Erm...I think I'll go...

Ant: Apart from change that shirt, maybe, because I've been in this recording studio for, what, 30 minutes? 30 odd minutes? It's beginning, I didn't wanna bring it up, mate, but it's beginning to smell a bit.

Dec: Thanks Ant. Erm, I dunno, I think I'll go back to...

Ant: No, no, you're not even gonna tell us if you're gonna change the shirt or not?

Dec: Yeah I'll change the shirt...

Ant: And have a wash, too?

Dec: I'll put on me uniform for me proper job, actually.

Ant: What's your proper job?
Dec: I erm, I collect the trolleys at Tesco's.
Ant: Do you?
Dec: Yeah.
Ant: I'm a, I'm a, I'm a milkman.
Dec: Really?
Ant: Yeah. Very exciting, it's true what they say, you know.
Dec: What's that then?
Ant: It's true what they say about milkmen.
Dec: That you get lots of free milk?
Ant: Yeah. I do.
Dec: Cool. Brilliant. But, erm...
Ant: The old people round near mine are really pleased.
Dec: Yeah.
Ant: Yeah. Hello Thomas, there's your pint. Hello Esther, there's your pint. You know, it's a daily round every morning, mate, after me normal round, it's a daily round...
Dec: Well, Anthony!
Ant: Yeah...I'm sorry, you know, you see, that's why I don't even tell anyone! 'Cause they're not even interested!
Dec: We should carry on this conversation later on...
Ant: OK, OK. OK!
Dec: But, erm, so what do you think people are gonna make of all this then?
Ant: I, I don't know, I don't know, I enjoyed it though, surely, I mean, you know...
Dec: I've enjoyed it too, but you know, how are people gonna take it?
Ant: What d'you mean?
Dec: Well, how're they gonna, how're they...
Ant: They're (whistles) ooh, what's that guy's problem?
Dec: But are they gonna like it?
Ant: What?
Dec: The album?
Ant: Well I hope so. I mean, or all this hard work's been in vain! All this 37 minutes has been in vain, mate! Did we say 37?
Dec: 37, yeah!
Ant: Ah right! OK!
Dec: Don't mention the 3 weeks it did take though!
Ant: (Laughs)
Dec: Err, yeah, 37 and a half minutes!
Ant: Yeah, right. Er, yeah, I hope so, mate, I hope so. You know, I mean I hope for your sake.
Dec: Well I might see you round Tesco sometime, mate.
Ant: Yeah, I mean, I mean that's it now, isn't it?

Dec: Erm, actually we've got a bit of bad news to stick on the end of here for everybody that's listening to the CD.

Ant: Yeah.

Dec: This is actually the err, the last professional engagement me and Ant are actually erm...

(Recording studio door opens)

Cleaner: That's it, mind out the way boys.

Dec: Oh sorry, love.

Ant: Sorry love.

Cleaner: You still 'ere?

Ant: We've got an interesting to thing to...

Dec: We've got an important...

Cleaner: Come on, mind out the way. I've gotta clean up in 'ere...

Ant: Please, please, no, no, love...love...

Dec: We've got an important...we've got an important...
(Scuffles)

Dec: We've got an important announcement to make.

Ant: Thanks for that extra biscuit at teatime!

Studio Operator: Hurry up, boys.

Ant: Anyway, anyway...

Dec: This is the last professional engagement we're gonna, err, engage in, and we actually are...

Studio Operator: Here, hurry up, boys!

Ant: We're, we're, the truth is we're splitting up...

Both: After this album.

Ant: So, this is our last album, so...

Dec: We just wanna thank everyone who supported us along the way...

Ant: It's our first and last so, err...

Dec: We are gonna, err, persue sort of careers now, both in television and in music, so we just want to thank everyone who supported us as a duo...

Ant: Yeah.

Dec: And a twosome.

Ant: So is this the last they'll hear of PJ & Duncan?

(Silence)

Both: PSYCHE!!

(Manic laughter)
