Where have I been on the outskirts of heaven Stayed until when I found a way to a garden I looked around me saw faces staring at me Said where have you been we've always been expecting

Someone or anyone who can show them the way to find The ray of light here in the garden Someone or anyone who can tell them The way how we live our life here in the garden

I have opened a door that washed away all my pain I tried to ignore creepy voices chanting my name I breath so deeply as I was flowing freely Down through the river back to my garden

Life is just a whisper into the ears of heaven
