I set my alarm clock for 6:15.
I kill the lights and switch off the screen.
I dream no dreams and I sleep no sleep.
I wake up tired and I hit the street.
What did I do to myself last night?
My head feels sore and I don't feel right.

Before I know it, it's 5 to 1.
I do so much I get nothing done.
I don't have time to treat you right.
I work all day and don't sleep at night.
But I won't give up. Three miles too high.
She sides with you. She is you now.

I catch a 59 down Brixton Hill.
I ride the tube and I can't sit still.
I talk to no one - don't know their name.
I get to work - it still looks the same.
What did I do to myself last night?
My head feels sore and I don't feel right.

Before I know it, it's 5 to 1.
I do so much I get nothing done.
I don't have time to treat you right.
I work all day and don't sleep at night.
But I won't give up. Three miles too high.
She sides with you. She is you now.

What did I do to myself last night?
My head feels sore and I don't feel right.
Before I know it, it's 5 to 1.
I do so much I get nothing done.

But I won't give up. Three miles too high.
She sides with you. She is you now.
I won't give up. Three miles too high.
This wears me out but I'll be alright.
I'll be alright.
