Everyday every way so many roads that we can take Everyday every way so many choices we can make

Every mold that we cast along the way is there to break
And every time we look back we cannot know just what's at stake

The things that we say
That we cannot betray
The choices we've made,
Define the part we play

There's a time to breakthrough and there's a time to turn around,
But every time we get lost remember what we may have found

The things that we say
That we cannot betray
The choices we've made,
Define the part we play
The steps that we take
That we cannot retrace

Every time that we get pushed into a door that don't seem right,
There's only so many times that we will get to roll the dice.

The things that we say
That we cannot betray
The choices we've made,
Define the part we play
Gone are the days
When we can be afraid
Cause life's just a game
That we cannot replay
