My eyes are opened by [the] Lioness Sittin' up [there] on her throne
So beautiful, sometimes she walks here on Earth With eyes that reflect, the depth (/profundity) and the essence that she is sharing A presence that brings things to life and heals Oh I, respect, and contemplate,
all those things that she represents.
Oh, how she carries [her?] life, yeah never let me take that for granted, oh no These times so challenging
The complexity thickens, society so pompous Blind are it's rulers, but the love she is sending out, so all-embracing.

[Chorus:]
Oh, this creation, manifested by our creator
Oh, this blessing,
manifested by our creator

Let truth reign again
All power structures will fall to the ground Because that which she plants, makes everything vibrate

She makes the circle whole and round again Makes the sun shine over the world Come on, let us fill it with love and respect, over and over again

[Chorus]

Love isn't what they're fighting over (/about?), but it upholds them,
it still is the foundation of this existential season, maayaa kundalinee kriaa madhumatee kaalee kalaamalinee (babble or possibly some foreign language like Balinese or Indonesian)

The world (literally: the universe) roars back with this Lioness-song

Present through the (onward) march of time, She is everything that we sing of,
She is everything that exists around here, let it be heard time after time

Let it point out (literally: remind about), Reflect within and out of,
inside of, outside of, around and (in) through

Whatever happens, we won't ever turn back x2

If they claim our hearts, we shall reject them If they try to manipulate our minds, then we will see through them
If they attack us, we'll only have love for them
We keep the fire lit every day, only Ishvara can put it out

Whatever happens, we won't ever turn back x4

Blood, love, soil, day-to-day, word for word, inside of, outside of, around and (in) through

All-encompassing (/All-embracing) x36
