Go ahead and stare the moon is yours, look all you want
The stationary cloud, the only light won't burn you out Maybe you were right, I never learned to fight, I just stood in line
In the city down below, the shy kids getting nothing, the time running low Domino, fate's lack of judgement led you here to me Where you choose to ride between the earth, the sky,
the sea
In the city we just left, happy fires are burning out there's nothing but smoke You go roundtrip in your head but you don't come home the same and nobody knows Chorus: In/I wouldn't let you and you wouldn't come/Sin/covering everything we couldn't climb/ and it's such a long way down Slow until you're going you go fast until you stop No match is made in heaven we're just present in the effort/Or not Heaviness in chest, and the city in your head's just one of those turns
And the things you remember best, left out of the telling, make you feel worse
