

Town Pants "Low Tide"

Visit "Low Tide" on MotoLyrics.com

It's 4am and we're sailing away from the port that we call home I feel a pain that I cannot explain a feeling I know all too well Tears won't help but I weep anyway for the ones that were left behind slowly I can't remember their faces slowly they start to die

I wan't someone beside me yet I push them all away I walk upon these stormy seas what I feel I shouldn't say

If you only knew what I could do
If you only knew what's really inside
If you only knew what I don't think I could tell you It's better just to watch the tide watch the tide

Its been way too long since I've been home longer than it's ever been before Too long since I've been on dry land too long since I've walked through your door I'm guilty of a lot of things I wish I hadn't done I've sat back and watched while others set the sun

I know right now if I could do it all again I wouldn't be so far away, from me

If you only knew what I could do
If you only knew what's really inside
If you only knew what I don't think I could tell you It's better just to run and hide, run and hide

Visit Town Pants page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

