Women you cant live with them you cant live without them

Sometimes its best to stick with what you got and sometimes

It's your friends that are there even when it looks like your shot

Breakups are tough and writing songs is rough especially when that person That you wrote it for is gone and hates you more

I did nothing wrong except I said I would never meet anyone else but I was wrong I met someone else and I felt sparks fly and magic brew and you shouldn't be mad because you told me to enjoy single life so screw you.

There's nothing wrong with trying new things Meeting new people and becoming in sync For once I am happy and glad that you're gone but your still mad and you hate And you degrade me and you try to persuade me and make me feel like the culprit

You're the one that set me free made me single a single soul Thanks you were a good friend but sometimes friendships have to end Sad to say it this one just did time to part ways expressions fade later days
