will it ever stop, i dont think so, i hear it everyday people yelling sellout, all they do is talk about anybody that achieves some success in anyway until you start your own band you will have no idea how much it costs,how much we lost,or why were still here will it ever stop, i dont think so,in fact we gotta go wish that we could stay but were playing every day and driving every night to get to the next show until you have your own band you will have no idea how musch it costs,how much we lost or why were still here same shit different day always gonna be this way sleeping on the bench in the back of the ford same shit different year all our gear is drenched in beer make another round on a punk rock tour will we ever stop, i dont think so,in fact were at our best through all the aggrivation hard work and dedication we practice real hard to be tighter than the rest until you start your own band you will have no idea how much it costs,how much we lost, or why were still here we're still diy we play to survive for us there's nothing else we word for ourselves and no one else poeple who dont know what they're talking about always yelling sellout who are you working for to pay your rent and bills i bet its corporate so your a sellout too fuck you! set it up, break it down, bring it to another town get the gear packed in the back of the van gonna tour another year,playing shows for food and beer spend my whole life on a punk rock tour
